THE APPOMATTOX VOLUNTEER Fire Department received a check for $500 from the American Legion post 104 Monday. Michael Weiss, adjutant of the local post, presented the check to Andy Scruggs of the fire department as Johnny Harris looked on. The funds came from proceeds from weekly Bingo games held at the post home on Oakleigh Avenue.

Red House Fire Department is organized

LESLIE R. "BUTCH" MAYS, Chief of newly formed Red House Volunteer Fire Department receives donation from Westvaco Timberlands District Forester Jim Grobowski.

The Red House Community has established a Volunteer Fire Department. The newly formed fire fighting group has already purchased two trucks.

Westvaco Timberlands Southern District Forester, Jim Grobowski, recently delivered a donation to the group in support of their organizing effort.

Chief Leslie R. "Butch" May accepted the donation on behalf of the Fire Department. Westvaco Timberlands realizes the vital role that these volunteer groups have in protecting local property, whether it be a home, barn, or our valuable timber resource.

The woods must be protected from wildfire which not only kill the trees, but also seriously damage stream watershed, wildlife habitat and recreation potential. Westvaco Timberlands has a vital interest in the Red House area, both in our managed forests and the jobs and other benefits they provide. We are proud to support this new fire department. We hope we never need them to fight a fire on our woodlands, but if we do, we want them as well trained and equipped as possible.

Scouts plan fund raising project

The members of the River Rat Patrol of troop 546 Appomattox, are having a rummage sale this Sat., March 17, from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. at Big Horn Market in Concord.

Tons of corn are placed in reserve

By TOM CONRAD

13.7 Million Bushels of Corn placed in reserve by previously ineligible farmers - As of April 24, 13,730,650 bushels (348,777 metric tons) of corn had been placed in the farmer-owned grain reserve by corn producers who did not sign up to participate in the 1979 feed grain program.

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland opened up the reserve to the non-participants on April 15 to help farmers isolate additional corn stocks from the marketplace and strengthen market prices.

At that time, Bergland said USDA would accept approximately 295 million bushels (7.5 million metric tons) of the previously ineligible corn on a first-come, first-served basis. This option will end after that amount has entered the reserve, or May 15.

Corn farmers who participated in the 1979 feed grain program and who currently have corn under a regular 9-month price support loan will continue to be eligible to enter their grain into the reserve, regardless of how many bushels of previously ineligible corn go into the reserve.

Total corn in the reserve through April 24, including the previously ineligible grain, was 835 million bushels (21.2 million tons).

CCC Corn purchases reach 100 millions bushels - The Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) bought 40.4 million bushels (1.03 million metric tons) of corn under its April 24 purchase offer, bringing total purchases under the corporation's special buying program to approximately 100 million bushels (2.5 million tons), Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland announced recently.

The corn purchased is U. S. No. 2 yellow, maximum 15 percent moisture. Bergland said the U. S. Department of Agriculture expects to issue figures on the weighted average price and a total purchase figure later.

CCC's special purchase program is part of the overall continuing effort to isolate from the market a quantity of corn equal to that suspended from shipment to the Soviet Union under a presidentail directive issued January 4.
